An incredible 500,000+ votes were cast in last year's BabyYumYum.co.za Product of the Year Awards and 2022 is expected to be even bigger and better!

Making a difference to the lives of parents

Over the past four years, BabyYumYum.co.za has successfully established itself as an industry leader in the online parenting space, as well as a credible source for expert advice, tips and tricks that have already helped thousands of moms, dads and caregivers to navigate the world of parenting.

"Nobody understands parents like we do at BabyYumYum.co.za and we're constantly striving to make their everyday lives easier – and that's exactly why we launched our Product of the Year Awards in 2019," says founder and chief mommy Amanda Rogaly.

"Whether you're a new or more 'experienced' parent, shopping for baby products can be overwhelming and confusing because there is so much choice available on the South African market," said Rogaly. "Awards like this help to guide parents on the most highly rated products out there, saving them both time and money."

"There's nothing more trustworthy than a parent's word, and we know that moms and dads often buy products based purely on other parents' recommendations, which is why we leave the voting for our Product of the Year Awards up to our loyal audience, rather than relying on a panel of judges."

Highlighting iconic brands

And the BabyYumYum.co.za Product of the Year Awards 2022 – the fourth of its kind – is no different. From the best bum creams to babyproofing equipment, toiletries and maternity underwear, each iconic brand that made it on to our shortlist was personally recommended by one of the moms, dads or caregivers that make up the BabyYumYum.co.za community.

Now it's up to all the parents and caregivers in South Africa to vote for the brands they think deserve to be top of this list – and when you cast your vote, you'll automatically be entered into a draw to win some incredible prizes worth R250,000!
