

Showing how technology drives security advances

From cellular telephony providing better communications, to IP-based networking that improves CCTV effectiveness and biometrics for fail-safe identification, the security industry is lapping up the advances made in technology to offer customers across the board a better security experience. A wide range of IT-enhanced security products will be on show at the Securex show, being held 26 – 28 September 2007 at the Cape Town International Convention Centre.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>