

Gorilla wins at Assegai Awards

Issued by Gorilla

17 Nov 2014

On November 6 the Assegais honoured marketing that hits the mark, and Gorilla was thrilled to walk away with two awards.

With a judging criteria that focuses on strategy, creativity and ROI, a campaign must be full bodied and balanced in order to crack the nod. Gorilla took home two bronzes for work on Pond's and Shield deodorant. Pond's earned theirs in the MMS, SMS and Mail category for the flawless radiance 7 Day Challenge campaign, which centred on an SMS mechanic. Shield's was in the Face to Face Activations/Field Marketing category for the B+W launch at the Top Gear Festival in Durban.

"These are our first Assegais, and we hope there are many more to come," remarked Michelle McEwan, Gorilla's Managing Director. "As a digital agency our imperative is to ensure the online components of a campaign integrate seamlessly with traditional media to provide a rich, immersive experience for the consumer. These campaigns bear testament to how powerful that connection can be when the marketing elements support one another."
